Call bids for Dec. 12 on 4,500 ft. airport

With the stipulation that no contract would be awarded by the present "lame duck" board, the supervisors Monday approved the port and harbor commission's recommendation to advertise for bids Dec. 12 on the 4,500-foot runway county airport.

Only three supervisors were present, two of them going out of office Jan. 2.

H.G. Dean of Beat 1 was finally persuaded on the basis that the present board wouldn't be letting the contract and moved to authorize the advertisement. Jack Lott of Beat 4 seconded and Dolph Kellar, Beat 2 member who is the only supervisor re-elected, of the five-member board, assured his colleagues he did not feel the current board would be involved in letting the contract.

John A. Scafide, Bay St. Louis' port commissioner, noted to the trio of supervisors that bids normally carry a 30-day clause so the decision could be held over to January. He concurred with Donald Landry, port president, that bids at this time would establish unit prices for the projects sought from the Federal Aviation Administration in fiscal 1969 and therefore should be pursued.

Dean commented that he didn't want to obligate the incoming supervisors to plans made by Michael Baker, jr., Inc., port and harbor commission engineers whose renewal contract has been tabled until after Jan. 2. He added that personally he would rather see the port commission "stick to the port rather than get into the airport." About two years ago the airport project had been turned over to the port group by the supervisors on the recommendation of a Bay St. Louis citizens group.

Three bills from the port commission for the Mulatto Bayou port development totalling $80,341.66 were approved for payment on Dean's motion and his colleagues went along with his proposal to hold up on a special claim from the port attorneys of $7,500 for legal work in connection with the airport.

Scafide, who had opposed approval of the bill at the port meeting last week, stayed around to make sure the supervisors understood his objection.

Dean said he wanted to read the contract with the lawyers—Gerald Gex and Michael Haas—to determine what they should do. Lott inquired as to the federal reimbursement involved and Gex explained Uncle Sam would pick up half the tab on strictly airport projects. This excluded the industrial area or access road, he noted. The cut-off date on the bill of June 23 marked the end of legal activities on the airport.

After approving a couple of bills for cleaning the National Guard Armory after the election—$10 each to John T. McCormick and Aldean Guthrie—the board adjourned until the first December meeting.

United Fund is roaring success

Total collections for the 1967 United Fund Drive in Hancock County amounted to $27,781.41 or $6,781.41 above the original goal of $21,000.

Last year's drive extended until Thanksgiving, as first collections lagged, totalled $21,764. or $4,264. above the hoped for figure of $17,500., and was responsible for the upped goal in '67.

James Ginn, chairman, announced that a Dutch treat luncheon to celebrate the successful collection will be held for United Fund workers at noon Friday in the banquet room at Michael's Restaurant at Club Lodge Motor Inn.

Local donations, the largest yet, were $13,000 with $14,781.41 coming in from Mississippi Test Facility.

Rittiner Industrial Enameling, through the only payroll deduction plan in Bay St. Louis, turned in $1,565.73.

Agencies benefiting from United Fund dollars include Hancock County Retarded Children's Assn., Gulf Coast Assn., for Mental Health; Blood Bank, Emergency Relief Fund, Boy and Girl Scouts, U.S.O. and the Dixie Youth Baseball, Inc.

Manager backers to see City Hall

The committee on the city manager form of government is to appear at City Hall Monday to notify the mayor and commissioners that a petition is to be filed formally requesting an election to determine if qualified voters of Bay St. Louis want to change to this form of municipal government.

E.J. Marengo, chairman, says more than 800 names have been signed on petitions to call for a vote on the issue. A final meeting will be at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday, at Bay Junior High School auditorium to allow anyone wishing to sign a petition to do so. There will also be a program to further explain how the city manager works, complete with facts and figures.

One of the points to be discussed Monday with Mayor John Scafide and councilmen Cyril Glover and Warren Traub, is adoption of a resolution to have one candidate from each of four wards on the ballot, with

City advisors meet Monday on street job

The Bay St. Louis Citizens Advisory Committee is slated to make its final recommendations to City Hall on the street construction and drainage program at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Webb Community Center.

Joseph L. Marochino, chairman, said notices are being mailed to all 50 members of the organization asking them to attend to hear a report from the consulting engineers on the project and develop plans on how to proceed.

Marochino said he is hopeful the committee can wrap up its work in this field Monday night.

Order crackdown against trespass

Law enforcement agencies are to be notified the next time students or other persons are on school property without authorization, trustees of the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District directed Superintendent J.D. McCullouch Monday night.

Steps to prevent the problem were ordered when McCullouch reported increasing difficulty with breaking and entering at the junior high gymnasium. He said all the culprits found last weekend were well informed as to school policy that alumni may use the basketball court if accompanied by a member of the coaching staff.

Board President Robert L. Hamilton suggested writing the offenders and reminding them of the policy.

Use of school property by civic organizations also came under lengthy discussion, mainly because of authorization given Jaycees to use the junior high auditorium for a public meeting next week on the city manager form of government.

The question arose during discussion of school board policies as part of the system's current self-evaluation program. Trustee Frank Wheat contended that permitting the auditorium's use on the city manager question was political rather than a community matter. He noted that the Gideon Society's request to distribute Bibles through the schools had been rejected a year ago.

Hamilton said he did not see how the board could turn down a public service organization, whether or not trustees agreed with its purpose. There is no other meeting place, argued Trustee Howard Adams, who noted also the schools must go to the public with bond issues, saying facilities, such as an auditorium, are for community use. Trustee Paul Henley sided with Wheat. Charles Thomas was absent.

McCullouch finally resolved the matter by suggesting that in the future, special meetings of the board be called to vote on applications to use school facilities if there is likely to be any question over the nature of the use.

Finances were a big part of the session with transportation and district maintenance dockets for October running about $12,000. Trustees requested City Commission Council to borrow an additional $30,000 on short-term notes in anticipation of taxes to meet the next payroll. With last month's loans this brings to $70,000 the total so far this year compared with [illegible] last year. [illegible]

Kiln's new VFW post remembers war dead

Importance of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in community activity was stressed by State Senator-elect Martin Smith, principal speaker at the first Veterans Day celebration by the newly organized VFW Post No. 6285 at Kiln Saturday.

"Some of the aims of VFW are to promote Christianity, patriotism and to give aid to families of deceased or disabled veterans", Smith said.

The little community of Kiln took on big city aspects as virtually all area residents turned out to witness the Veterans' Day parade and pay tribute to deceased comrades. They lined the highway as the parade passed, starting at Annunciation School and ending at the VFW home just off State 603 near Melva's place.

Leading the parade was a convertible containing Hancock North Central School's homecoming queen, Linda Lee, Smith, post commander W.H. Rayfield, post quartermaster Cleveland Wyatt, Bay St. Louis post quartermaster Herbert Shiyou and Renalder Cameron, a veteran of World War I. North Central's band, directed by R.J. Vermulyea followed.

Deer season opens Saturday

Deer hunting students and working men got a break when, at the request of Gov. Paul Johnson, the Mississippi Game and fish Commission changed the season opening date to Saturday, Nov. 18, instead of Monday.

But hunters had better obey all the rules. Game Warden Pat Toomey said additional wardens are being sent in to help patrol the county.

Season on duck, geese and coots (pouledeu) opens Nov. 29 and Toomey said it looks like a good one.

KANTCHA KETCHUM

By L. S. (Doc) Elliott

The weather of the last two weeks has been ideal for both fishing and hunting. Rather cool weather has prevailed, tides have been normal and the water in most streams is clear. Both fresh and salt water fish are being caught.

This Saturday the duck season opens and with the goose season already open there should be some mighty good shooting out in the marshes. For the first week of the season duck hunting is good in lakes and lagoons hereabout, but after a little shooting they are gone.

Streams seldom spoken of are Wolf River, Bayou Portage and Bayou DeLisle over on the other side of the Bay. These furnish some excellent fresh and salt water fishing. Grassy Point has long been known for its red fish and speckle trout, especially at this time of the year. Boats can be rented at DeLisle and it's only a short distance to most of these places.

Now that shrimping is out, local commercial fishermen are turning to oystering. Oyster boats will be seen most everywhere out in the Gulf while tonging will be done by fishermen close to shore. Oysters from our section are fat and salty and of good size.

Oysters can be purchased by the sack, bushel, etc. Opening oysters, when one knows how, is easy and fun. They are a delicious seafood when eaten raw, fried, stewed, baked or used for making soup.

Jeff and Mary Southard are ardent fishermen and enjoy fishing of any kind. Their home is on Pine Ridge Road.

Tony Benigno, one of our local boys, spends a lot of his time both fishing and hunting. He knows his stuff when it comes to both.

Buddy Whitfield and Ben Sowden caught their share of bass last week up Pearl River way. They are from Picayune and visit this section regularly.

Two swell people are Bob Kessel and his wife of New Orleans, who own a home in Bay St. Louis. Name the fishing and we'll do it, said Bob. They come over regularly and spend their weekends out after the finny tribe.

A. K. Martinolich, one of our older fishermen, loves the sport as well as floundering and soft crabbing. He fishes with his friends and usually gets his share.

A new addition to the Bay is Carver's Sea Food place on Citizen St. This should be good news to all lovers of oysters on the half shell which is a specialty. Oysters can be purchased by the hamper or smaller quantities to be opened at home.

Was sorry to hear of the death last week of three of our local sports, J.W. Dupaquier, Irvin (Bo Peep) Bontemps and W.W. McDaniel. Sympathy is extended to their families.

The second part of the split dove season hasn't been too hot, according to those going out after the fast flying birds. Probably the weather has been too hot. The second part of the season closes on Nov. 10 and the third season opens Dec. 23.

David Carter, his wife and son, and David's father escaped a bad boat accident in Pearl River. His boat hit a buoy marker while they were enjoying a boat outing.

According to reports a few flounders are still being speared out front. Better give them a try.

Turtles have no teeth, but their jawbones are very sharp and hard. Keep your hands away from their head.

A few striped bass (barfish) are being caught in local waters just now. Generally when you hook one others will be hooked. They usually run in schools. They are very game, equaling black bass in this respect.

Smart fishermen cut out the tide table which appears in the Echo each week on the front page. The information is accurate. Carry it in your wallet for future reference.

George L. Souzenau, Jr., likes his fishing and has done it for years. He caught some speckles, and large flounders off the highway bridge using a sidewinder and bucktail. He laughingly said he landed some delicious oysters, too, on his hook.

Lovers of bird dogs are getting them in shape for the quail season which opens next month.

Roy Baxter loves to spear flounders along the banks of Pearl River. He gets his share and says now is the time to go after them. Low tides during the winter months especially on dark nights really pay off.

Bill Witter is spending his vacation at the Bay. Bill loves to fly fish and is really good at it. He does other kinds of fishing also. He is trying to catch up on his fishing while here.

One of the most popular modern day type bed boats utilizes a small air-cooled engine and wooden propeller. These boats are ideal for getting to duck pot holes and for fly fishing in lily covered shallow lakes. They are also used in the Louisiana marshes.

Just what is community use?

An interesting, if difficult, policy decision for Bay St. Louis Separate Municipal School System was pointed up at Monday's trustees meeting. Superintendent Joe D. McCullouch and Board President Robert Hamilton had given permission to the Jaycees to use the junior high auditorium for a meeting dealing with the city manager form of government.

Even if by-partisan in support, the question of what form of government Bay St. Louis should have is about as politically "hot" as anything could be. We suspect proponents and opponents of the proposed change are far more definite in their views than they were over whether John Bell Williams, Democrat, or Rubel Phillips, Republican, should be governor. Trustee Frank Wheat, contending that the Jaycees use of the auditorium was a political rather than a community project, opposed the idea. In this he was supported by Trustee Paul Henley.

Board President Hamilton and Trustee Howard Adams supported the use of the building by the Jaycees. Hamilton's view was in part determined by the character – public service organization – of the Jaycees. While Adams argued that when the schools [illegible] a bond issue passed for such facilities the voters were always told that such was for community use.

For ourselves, we believe such facilities should be made available for community use with a very broad definition of what that is. We see no legitimate objection to the auditorium being used by the Democrats or the Republicans as such. We do feel that there should be a nominal charge for use of such facilities to reimburse the school system for extra lighting and janitorial costs.

Beat 1 finances are OK -- Dean

Elsewhere on this page is a letter from Supervisor H.G. Dean of Beat 1. It is a partial rebuttal of an editorial we ran last week entitled "It's Your Money".

Although Dean does not dispute the facts set forth in the editorial, he feels that this paper singles him out for prejudicial reasons. In this connection, he would show that a search of all the facts would indicate some of the other beats were in a more precarious financial condition than Beat 1.

In conversing with us he emphasized the two miles of new paving he had done in Beat 1 since the election, the money from his beat spent in paving the stretch of South Beach Boulevard from St. Stanislaus College to St. Charles Street. These facts all speak well for Supervisor Dean.

One more item in last week's editorial needs clarification. We pointed out that Beat 1 had borrowed $15,000. As we understand it, it is perfectly legal for an outgoing supervisor to spend for road and bridge construction, maintenance and equipment not more than one-fourth of the budgeted amounts for these items for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

Since most tax revenues are not received by the supervisors until March, they may borrow against the estimate of these revenues to operate their district during the first quarter of the fiscal year. This is all Dean has done and he has assured us that when Supervisor-elect Charles A. Russ, III, takes office in January, Russ will have all the tax monies available to him that are his just due.

"A Conservative View"

by James J. Kilpatrick

WASHINGTON - What Britain decides to do about her House of Lords is, of course, supremely the business of Great Britain. Those of us on this side of the water are no more entitled to advise Commons on how to treat the problem of the Lords than our British friends are entitled to advise us on how to treat the problem of George Wallace.

Nevertheless, those who reverse a conservative tradition may be forgiven an expression of regret at the thought of Harold Wilson's stubby hands at work in ancient clay. It is not clear, of course, just what Mr. Wilson has in mind; he may have nothing more in mind, at the moment, than a nice diversion, in the classic style, intended to draw fire from the intransigence of M. de Gaulle and the insobriety of Mr. Brown. This was all the Queen said in her speech of the 31st

"Legislation will be introduced to reduce the powers of the House of Lords and to eliminate its present hereditary basis, thereby enabling it to develop within the framework of a modern parliamentary system."

Mr. Wilson subsequently enlarged upon these ominous portents:

"I begin with powers," he said. "The Other Place, on a strict reading of our constitution, has vast powers not only to amend legislation passed by the elected chamber, but to delay it, to reject subordinate legislation in the form of statutory instruments and, if it so wills, to frustrate on matters of great urgency the decisions of this democratically elected House. . .

"It is an anachronism that a House not responsible to the electorate should have the powers which the Other Place has, and it is an indefensible survival from the centuries that one of the two Houses in our modern parliamentary constitution should, whatever its powers, be based upon the hereditary principle."

And Mr. Wilson went on to promise that reform legislation will be introduced "in good time for it to become law this session."

Now, Mr. Wilson was speaking truth--up to a point. In this egalitarian day, when the old bugles of honor and inheritance are muted, and little is heard but the raucous blats of "one man, one vote," the Other Place is clearly out of pitch. It is an anachronism. The hereditary principle, applied to a parliamentary body, denies every democratic precept. What were the qualifications of My Lord Tomnoddy? Merely one: "He's the Earl of Fitzdotterel's eldest son."

Very well. Doubtless a case can be made for reform. Out of 1,045 present members, 744 are Lords because their fathers were. Some of these ermine tails could be clipped at no great loss. But the larger questions remain.

In the wholly pragmatic view, which is the worst of all views, the House of Lords has served its vital function well. It provides the brakes upon the legislative machine. Can it be demonstrated that the Lords have delayed any genuinely urgent bills, or frustrated any really desirable laws? None comes to mind. For that matter, few British governments have more sorely needed curbing than the government of Harold Wilson.

But the House of Lords provides something more. "Nobility is a graceful ornament to the civil order," said Burke. "It is the Corinthian capital of polished society." And so it is. What is so wrong with the hereditary principle? It is out of fashion. Yes, yes. But what is wrong with it? It is undemocratic. True, true. But what is wrong with that?

At its worst, the House of Lords is just as Oscar Wilde described it. "The best thing in fiction the English have ever done." At its best, it is an evocation of the centuries that have gone before. It speaks of rank and eminence and order, and if these be anathema to a Labour government, they are qualities elsewhere revered.

Men do poorly to dismantle old institutions merely because they are old. Witness the "modernization" of the Roman Catholic ritual. It is an act of arrogance to presume that wisdom is a handmaiden of democracy. This is not necessarily so.

Disraeli went late in life to the Other Place. He emerged from his first sitting as Lord Beaconsfield with a typically sardonic summary. "I am dead," he said, "dead, but in the Elysian Fields." It is a piece of honored real estate well worth preserving.

Editor, Sea Coast Echo:

Your editorial of Nov. 9, 1967, entitled "It's Your Money" in the interest of the truth [illegible] be answered with the whole truth.

Certainly the money spent from the Beat 1 road [illegible] fund since the summer campaign was the people's money and was [illegible]. A [illegible] investigation on your part [illegible] that [illegible] is how [illegible] been hard-surfaced during the last two months. Also, several thousand dollars of Beat 1 funds have been spent in the Lakeshore-Clermont area of Beat 1, all properly budgeted on Sept. 1.

Also, my campaign figures were not inaccurate. A one-minute check of the records on your part will reveal this to be true. Apparently, you simply want to kick those you personally dislike.

Also, my beat funds are not in the red, the shape in which I found them when I became supervisor, and my successor will succeed to all tax money coming into the county treasury during the upcoming [illegible] with very little need for expenditure for road maintenance, most of them are now hard-surfaced.

I have not made any attacks on my successor, and will not. I sincerely hope he makes a good supervisor, not only for the good of the county, but for the sake of his good family name.

Now, for the good of the county please allow the campaign to end and relieve me of your slander. I too have a family.

Sincerely,
H. G. DEAN.

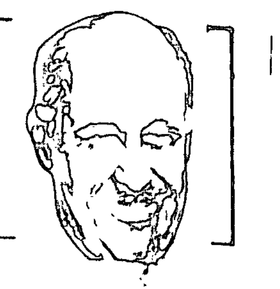
'Mac' trains draft rejectees



By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - Robert S. McNamara has just delivered the most unusual speech of any Secretary of Defense in history--on democracy between men and the rehabilitation of men.

In some ways the speech should be no surprise because McNamara, before he became head of the giant Ford Motor Co., was a teacher, also because McNamara is the first Secretary of Defense in history who has really acted as boss of the far-flung armed services.

The highlights of McNamara's speech have already been covered by the press associations. However, it is so important that it deserves repetition and diagnosis in this column.

Secretary McNamara didn't know it, but about the time he was delivering the speech before the National Assn. of Education Broadcasters in Denver an illustration of what he was talking about took place at Fort Bragg, N.C.

The case involved a young Negro, who had once stolen my car. Instead of being prosecuted, he was turned over to a Big Brother, Henry Thomas, who is a paper-handler at the Washington Post. Big Brother Thomas deserves the initial credit, together with the boy's mother, for putting him on a straight path. But the Army deserves credit for the second step, when the boys graduated from basic training last weekend and marched tall and proud, with his mother watching him, to receive his marksman medal and to be shipped off to St. Louis to join the engineers.

Secretary McNamara was talking about thousands of similar cases, white and Negro, when he reported on the armed forces' new programs on "Open Housing," "Project 100,000," and "Project Transition."

Of these, the best known is Open Housing, in which the armed forces have cracked down hard on landlords who, as McNamara states it, "parade under the pomposity of racial superiority" and deny housing to men "the color of whose blood, when they shed it in the defense of Asia, is all the same shade," but who, when they return home, find that it's the "color of their skin" that matters.

"The Negro serviceman has been loyal and responsible to his country," said McNamara, "but the people of his country have failed in their loyalty and responsibility to him."

Accordingly, McNamara told how he was using the far-flung power of the armed services to boycott landlords who discriminated against Negro families.

Project rehabilitation

McNamara's second project is to rehabilitate dropouts, the uneducated, the draft rejects. Of 1.8 million young men reaching military service age each year, he said, some 600,000--a third--failed to qualify under draft standards. In some states Negroes were rejected at the rate of 80 per cent.

"These men have a potential," the Secretary of Defense pointed out, "but the slow and silent poison of the poverty virus has paralyzed it in many of them. They have grown up in an atmosphere of drift and discouragement--in a ghetto of the human spirit."

Accordingly the Defense Department, which McNamara described as "the world's largest producer of skilled men," has already undertaken to rehabilitate 49,000 rejected draftees this first year, as part of a project to rehabilitate 100,000 each year.

McNamara reported that the first year 96 per cent of these men successfully completed basic training, which is only 2 per cent less than the normal graduation rate. The men have not been told that they are sub-standard. Only the armed forces know that they are on trial.

"It is absolutely imperative that they believe in themselves and their own potential," said McNamara. "They obviously cannot do that if we treat them with anything remotely suggesting condescendence.

"The plain fact is that our 'Project 100,000' is succeeding beyond even our most hopeful expectations. Many of our commanders report that these men are turning out to be even more highly motivated than some servicemen with a much more privileged background."

McNamara vs. generals

The job of being Secretary of Defense has not always been smooth sledding for Bob McNamara. In the past, the generals and the admirals have run their own shops under civilian chiefs who ducked authority. There has been undercutting of McNamara on Capitol Hill when some top brass have sneaked up to whisper in the ear of Rep. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., the alcoholic who heads the House Armed Services Committee, or into the ear of Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., No. 1 hawk on Capitol Hill.

But in Project 100,000 the Secretary is getting enthusiastic support from his military commanders. The armed forces had already done a great job in World War II under Gen. George Marshall and his deputy, Gen. "Buck" Lanham, in their education and instruction program, which permitted thousands of men to take college degrees while in the services.

Today the armed services are going further, under McNamara, with a third "Project Transition" to help the 75,000 men who retire every year to civilian life get into the right kind of jobs. This is a voluntary program, carried on with the assistance of the Labor Department, the Post Office, and HEW, so men who have been trained in battle can adjust to civilian life for the benefit of both themselves and their country.

McNamara says all this can be done with "stretching our resources." They are programs which will bolster the security of this nation.

Port details cited

Details of construction at both the Mulatto Bayou industrial park and future county airport occupied the port and harbor commission last Thursday night when it adopted resolutions calling for new bids on the first airport construction phase and applied for federal matching funds in fiscal 1968.

An 18-month spoilage easement has been negotiated gratis with E. M. Brignac covering 58.15 acres on the bayou, attorneys Gerald Gex and Michael Haas reported. Negotiations for additional spoils areas with the Baldwin interests were to continue at a recessed session last Friday in New Orleans where port commissioners went to the International Trade Mart.

Bauer Dredging Co.'s work has been slowed because some of its equipment was hit by the Gulfport tornado. Clearing on the access road to the port site is 50 per cent complete, representatives of Michael Baker, Jr., consulting engineers, reported.

Commissioner Elliot Casanova reported on conferences with Sam Whitfield who is clearing lumber from the airport area needed for the first construction stage. He is paying $7 per unit rather than $5 as bid and through last Friday had cleared $991 worth. International Paper Co. is verifying what it has bought as the only authorized purchaser of the timber. Casanova said Whitfield is taking liability for any timber cut beyond limits of present construction.

After a report on Southern Airways' meeting that day in Jackson on its re-alignment proposals, the commission agreed to get Douglas Wynn, special counsel, to check whether other lines besides Southern might offer better service to the new Hancock field. Eastern, National and "one other" were mentioned having inquired.

Gordon Garrettson of the Baker firm explained Southern was cutting back on its schedule because its federal subsidy is being reduced from 20 to 17 per cent. Only Columbus, Jackson and Meridian in Mississippi are exempted from the curtailments, he reported.

On a motion of Edward Schambach, it was voted to request the board of supervisors to approve a $7,500 bill from the two attorneys for their special legal work on the airport. John A. Scafide was lone dissenter, noting they got a $75 monthly retainer and [illegible] one per cent on the Crosby land title examination.

Membership in the Chamber of Commerce was approved and Casanova delegated to attend its meetings. They held for other prices a brochure pre-

Mr. Jenny's r o o s t is well earned as he has spent many, many years as chief clerk in the office of comptroller of the City of New Orleans, putting in the usual 8 to 5 expected hours, after which he would dash to the famed Broussard's Restaurant to serve as maitre d'hotel, bookkeeper and accountant for nearly 15 years. After that he accepted a position with the National Bank of Commerce as clearing agent from 6 p.m. until his duties were completed for the past 15 years.

He and Mrs. Jenny, a nurse, now working her final month at Manhattan Manor Nursing Home; are the parents of two married daughters and the whole family is most enthusiastic about decorating for holidays.

The series of projects began the first Christmas after their marriage with the traditional manger, candles and the like. This proved to be so much fun that they brought out purple and gold on Mardi Gras, and have been adding decorations more and more elaborate as the years go by.

So warm was the reception in Waveland, as car loads of costumed children poured in, even as late as 9:30 p.m., despite the chill drizzle of rain, that the Jenny's think portions enjoyment of their show just might inspire others to imitate their efforts.

This lively twosome has dreamed for years of just relaxing and making others happy with holiday projects; but now that the day has become a reality, find that the calendar doesn't have quite enough red letter days to keep them occupied, and both plan to continue working in their fields for at least five, or would you believe maybe seven, days a week, if the opportunity is afforded. Mr. Jenny says he's seen too many retirees, used to a busy schedule, just disintegrate from sheer inactivity, and he has no desire to go that route.

HALLOWEEN SPOOKS – Aloysius E. Jenny, chief spook of Central Avenue, is shown in yard of much decorated home in Waveland in same ensemble in which he greeted over a hundred trick or treaters on Halloween night.

Combined with The Hancock County Eagle and The Waveland Advocate
BAY ST. LOUIS, MISSISSIPPI, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1967

official observance of what was initiated as Armis-, commemorating the official end of World War I in ow known as Veterans Day was the largest ever in the artly uniformed bands, Boy and Girl Scouts, St. Clare's School classes and buglers and drummers from Keesler rched behind Legionnaires, auxiliary members, VFW and ar I veterans, the latter group deciding that they had the right to ride instead of walking in the parade. veterans held quite a celebration at their post, (which y housed Milton Durel's picture framing shop), after the and drank toasts to the big day with champagne punch, oyed another of their gourmet luncheons.

Kiln had a parade, too

Veterans of Foreign Wars held their first official y beginning at 10:15 a.m. Saturday with martial music ock North Central band supplemented by the drum and orps from Keesler. State Senator-elect Martin Smith o the assemblage in front of the new post, now in the of extensive remodeling. Wives, to be members of the y when their charter is accepted, served sandwiches and a benefit following the speaking, etc.

e and Norman Benigno are among newest of new car y Von Antz was bearer of happy tidings regarding the of her first grandchild, Albert William Von Antz, IV, :43 a.m. Nov. 8 at Gulfport Memorial Hospital weighing ing nine pounds, four and one-half ounces. Linda and Al proud parents, and Doris and Raymond Ladner equally aternal grandparents.

ks for St. Clare's

y at 8 p.m. is the time set for a benefit at St. Clare's Hall. The affair, sponsored by St. Clare's Home-Assn., is to raise funds for much needed books for the ibrary.

r Shockley, a native Tennessean, who has done a number esting things, including singing Western music in an n night club, is cutting quite a swath around the Bay ends. He's working in Baton Rouge, but returns here riday night. Wonder why

Junior auxiliary affair

Waveland Junior Auxiliary members certainly did them- roud in presenting their first charity ball at the National rmory Saturday night. Ann (Mrs. Jay) Howe was dance e chairman, and incidentally looked even lovelier than deep purple velvet. Karen (Mrs. John) Springer, and her did a wonderful job with heraldic decorations most ly turning the huge building into a medieval castle. hose greeting guests were Bobby (Mrs. Henry) Maggio, , wearing a striking fuchsia gown, Virginia (Mrs. Fred in a most becoming shade of blue; Jill (Mrs. Gerald) nce chairman in white, Peggy (Mrs. Floyd Hepting and (Mrs. Walter) Weaver, both in black; Lois (Mrs. E.D. wearing sapphire blue velvet with matching jewelry, l (Mrs. Andy) Martinolich chose a becoming pale yellow lso Nancy (Mrs. Howard) Adams, vice president, in a one strap blue, she almost in shock after learning that she lly winner of the Shamis' donated white fox stole; Myrt ichael) Haas, chose pink; Shirley (Mrs. Gene) Williams ng red, as was pretty brunette Dot (Mrs. H.A.) Black- Others spotted, although we can't remember just what e, included Sue (Mrs. Travis) Hensley, Nell (Mrs. Bill) Vivian (Mrs. Jay) Lacoste, Jo (Mrs. Wally) Burns. n (Mrs. Waldo) Dearing, Paddy (Mrs. Dave) Johnson, (Mrs. Phil Kergosien) Lou (Mrs. Terry) Feeney, Faith ouglas) Kogor, Marion (Mrs. Tom) Whittington and Mary rry) Willett. The queen Mrs. Fred Dallas, was most chosen by awarding Cinderella's slipper on an 'if the ts, wear it basis. Prince Charming, Jerry Willett her with dignity and prince consorts were Dave John- Gene Williams.

y we won't be able to do a very good job of covering t list as we table hopped like mad, but were unable to h more than just about half of the crowd that gave their to this worthy cause. Just a few included Mr. and Mrs. bin, Iva May and John McDonald, Emily and Rene de in and daughter Lorraine, Ada and Sam Whitfield, Mar- nd Dick Shadoin, Marilyn and Frank Hille, Irma and Levens, Elvira and Gerry Ross, Hazel and C.W. Tracey d Jimmy Lagasse, Gerri and Charles Johnson, Ann and Develle, Shirley and Hank Stockmann, and so on and on night.

on the dance scene

e everyone is so enthusiastic over this dance, don't that the last of the year 1967 will take place at St. Parish hall Saturday night, beginning at 9 o'clock with by the swinging Dixieland Saints. Donation is the usual benefit the Holy Name Society, which, by the way has cted new officers to be installed next month.

AT THE BALL – Prince Charming Jerry Willett finds his 'Cinderella' as sparkling slipper is perfect fit for Mrs. Fred Dallas. They reigned as monarchs of Bay-Waveland Junior Auxiliary's first charity ball Saturday night at National Guard Armory.

Roy Saux is to be president, Bud Francis first vice president, Tommy Hayes, second vice president Paul Whitman, secretary, Ed Crudden, treasurer and Wiley Price, chaplain.

About rollers

Claire Scivicque of New Orleans was the weekend guest of her brother, Bob, and his ever lovely wife, Fay. Fay and Bob insist that they hold the title of 'most rolled on Halloween night', as every shrub and tree in their extra large yard was neatly wrapped in tissue. The Scivicques have also done a little research on motivation for this popular sport and were told by youthful perpetrators that if your rollers like you, the paper is white. If it's colored, that's true love! Now how about that

The most active Friendly Squares dancing group now boasts a total of 72 active members in Bay-Waveland area. The group is holding a workshop at Choctaw Lodge in Waveland, from 8 until 10 p.m. every Tuesday in November conducted by Hank Johnson of Slidell.

Angling news

Teddo Thomas says if it weren't for all the big flounders he's catching, he, as the solitary angler these chilly nights, would give up and go home for sheer lack of companionship. Theo Tudury reports that they were catching lots of big specs in Bayou Caddy last Thursday.

Linda and Steven Riechelt have moved into the home on Grosvenor Place formerly occupied by Jackie and Bob Robertson.

Johnnie and Bob Akers are at home once again after taking their annual vacation. Johnnie, of course, went to Florida to visit with her daughter and son-in-law and family, and was joined by Bob after he attended a three-day convention of Ve-

1st awards dinner planned by theater

The Little Theater will stage its first annual awards dinner at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 7 at Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, preceded by a social hour.

Louie awards will be presented afterwards to the best actor of the season, the best actress, best support actor and actress and director of the best play of 1967.

Plays presented during the year include Mary, Mary, Anastasia, Barefoot in the Park and General Seeger.

Four judges ranked each play and the principal actors on a point system following each performance. Their decisions were averaged and compared to arrive at the final choices.

Charley Bryan of station WWL in New Orleans will serve as master of ceremonies. Entertaining with him will be his wife, a comedy singer who is known professionally on the Gulf Coast as Gerri Kaye.

Theater members and those interested in its activities may secure tickets from Mrs. J.K. McKenna or de Montluzin Drug Store. Seating capacity of the club is 200.

Square dancers install slate

Joe Kilbert was installed chairman at dance given by the Friendly Squares square dancing club at Choctaw Lodge on Coleman Avenue, Waveland, on Tuesday, Nov. 7, with Hank Johnson of Slidell as caller.

Other officers are Ed Sutterfield, program co-ordinator, Mrs. Robert Welsh, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Stan Sanders, refreshment co-ordinator, and Stan Sanders, membership, entertainment and public relations.

IT'S ALL MINE – Mrs. Howard Adams laughs joyfully as Mrs. Henry Maggio, president of Bay-Waveland Junior Auxiliary, attempts to fasten white fox stole, first prize in drawing at Cinderella ball, about her shoulders.

Methodist rites join Miss Smith, Mr. Rose

Miss Angela Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith of Clermont Harbor, became the bride of Glenn Rose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rose of Bay St. Louis, in a double ring ceremony at 8 p.m. Thursday in Main Street Methodist Church. Rev. Lamar Martin, pastor, officiated.

Mrs. Richard Ford, organist, played traditional nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride had as her attendant her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Smith. Jeffrey Rose was his brother's best man.

Following the ceremony a small reception was given in Fellowship Hall. The bride's table, covered with a white lace cloth, held the three-tiered wedding cake trimmed with white spun sugar roses. The top tier, supported by a swan trimmed pedestal, was topped with sugar roses and a nose gay of ribbon. Gold candelabras holding white tapers were on either side.

Mrs. Hamilton Guenard, III, and Mrs. James Strong presided at the punch table.

The bride attended Bay High School. The groom, a graduate of Bay High, attended Pearl River Junior College. He recently completed boot training with the Navy and is now stationed in San Francisco, Calif.

I am James Shoemaker of Biloxi. I have had this truck for two months now. I didn't give a testimonial at the time I bought the truck because really I figured all this talk about after sale service was just talk. However after returning to Gerry Lanes' service department about three times now, I found that they really mean what they say. They do give the best prices and by far the best service I have had in years. I am sure glad I bought from John Gallagher and Gerry Lane Chevrolet.

A satisfied customer.

Yule decor is topic of newcomers

Christmas specialties of members were displayed and explained when the Bay-Waveland Newcomer Club held its November meeting at Gulf Palms Restaurant.

Mrs. T. Gallassero showed decorated styrofoam balls placed tree-fashion on a glittering gold background. Mrs. Sam Reitz used her styrofoam balls suspended at different levels from a horizontal bar for a window decoration.

Mrs. Ed Thomson showed door-knob covers that come in kit-form, and several ideas of her own for knob covers. She also had a toy stuffed duck that could be made from scraps for children.

Mrs. Clarence Evans had a new craft, felt flowers, which were a featured item for Christmas in House Beautiful. She also showed a candle made in the form of a Christmas tree and decorated accordingly.

Mrs. Ralph Largay's contribution was made up of discarded bottles, jars and glasses which were glued together and then painted — the end result being a candle holder of whatever height you wished to make it.

Mrs. Art Sullivan gave a demonstration on how to make attractive and professional-looking canapes, hors d'oeuvres and small cakes.

The doorprize, a floral arrangement of autumn-hued mums, was won by a new member, Mrs. M. McCarthy.

Fleet Greyhounds trounce Tigers

[illegible] Co-champion Ocean Springs continued its march to the 1967 Gulf Coast Conference football crown Friday defeating Bay High 35-0 in Greyhound Stadium at Ocean Springs. It was the Tigers' final game of the season.

But the Greyhounds have one big hurdle to jump - Stone. They meet the Tomcats Friday on Stone's gridiron in the last weekend of conference football. Only remaining games on the Coast are six bowl matches.

Ocean Springs is leading the conference race with six wins and no losses while Stone is 4-2 but the Tomcats have the best over-all record with 7-2, Ocean Springs being 6-2-1.

Dark horse in the race is Harrison Central's Red Rebels who are 6-1 and 7-2, their only conference loss being to Ocean Springs. They will wind up as co-champs with Ocean Springs should Stone roll over the Hounds Friday.

Other records are Long Beach 3-3 and 3-5 with one more game, Pass Christian, Friday; St. Martin, 3-4, 4-4-1; Pass Christian, 2-4, 3-6; Bay High, 2-5, 4-5, and Hancock North Central, 1-7, 0-9.

Friday, the Tigers couldn't stop the fired up Greyhounds who scored in every quarter and twice in the fourth. Bay High scored in the second when Don Estapa plunged over from the two.
